Don't Let Soap Spoil Your Hair

When you wash your hair, be careful what you use. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle. The best thing to use is just plain mulsified coccanut oil, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pleces. You can get this at any drug stors, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleaness thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruft.

Dear Sir: I have in my possession an Indian bow made by an Indian mend Congdon in Mohegan. The bow was given to me when I was quite a small boy by Frederick Congdon, who was a blacksmith in Lisbon years ago. He was a very old man when he gave it to me. It was the property of his father, and possibly grandfather. It must be nearly 200 years old. I am writing this thinking it might lend a little interest to the occasion.

Was which opened at 4 o'clock. Seat-the don the platform were Principal Henry A. Tirrell and members of the board of trustees. The Academy orchestra under the leadership of Frederic H. Cranston and the Girls' Glee club assisted in the programme. The class motto, Tenax Propositi (tenacious of purpose) occupied a prominent position overhead.

At 3.30 o'clock the class assembled on the steps in front of the Academy building where a group picture was taken. A few minutes before four o'clock the class filed into Slater hall and took seats in the center of the hall.

The Order of Exercises.

Yours very truly, E. L. FRENCH.

On the morning of the big day of the ow-wow at 10.30 o'clock Rev. H. J. Vyckoff and his troop of Boy Scouts and as many others as may be inter-ested in the ceremony will gather on Sachem Plain at the spot where Mian-Sachem Piain at the spot where Miantonomo's monument is located and there with fitting exercises place a wreath upon the monument. When the parade reaches Uncas' monument on Sachem street a similar service will be performed, the parade halting just long enough for that purpose.

This ceremony will be carried out by the fellowing direct descendants of the Mohegan tribe of Indians: Charles H. Mathews, Edward C. Fowler, Joseph Peters and Henry Eaker.

An important change has been made in the route which will be followed by the parade through this city. The new route will be as follows:

there were never such opportunities for girls. Go ahead bravely and confidently, and make the most of your chance. This is indeed our year. It will always mean much to us to have graduated in 1917, the greatest year in the world's history. If we only have our ideals and our goal constantly before us and if we remain "tenacious in purpose," no failure can overcome us. As we bild farewell, let us say again: "This is our year."

yours.

How much that is great and good can you make your own? You behold before your very eyes one of the most momentous struggles of all history.

Is the world willing to part with its ideals? Must chivalry and honor be sacrificed to ambition? Has civilization nothing to offer higher than material prosperity?

The answers to these questions will be written in blood and you must answer them for yourselves. Which do you place first, Honor or Prosperity. Conscience or Power?

Your usefulness in the world depends on your answer. On behalf of the trustees I now present to you your Academy diplomas. The members of the graduating class The members of the graduating class were as follows:

Classmates—We are gathered here as a class, perhaps for the last time. Lef us not consider this occasion too lightly. Let it linger in our memories, lightly. Let it linger in our memories, stored away with those things which we cherish most. The four years which we have passed within the portals of old N. F. A. have not only afforded fundamentals for advancment in life, but have created among us an everlasting friendship which cannot dis.

And now, to express in part love and devotion toward our dear old Alma Mater, we plant this lvy. Let us as we go forth still be joined together in thought with our school and with each other, as each leaf of this little plant, in the days to come when it has grown and flourished, will be linked with its fellows and the mother root. And let it live long, yet not outlive our loyalty to N. F. A.

Honors for Miss Ruth Ginsberg. At Friday's graduation of 514 fupils at New Haven High school one of the five selected to read an essay was Miss Ruth Ginsberg. This young lady is a former Norwich resident and the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Smith, of West Main street. Her subject was Pre-paredness, and she made the point that the Umited States should develop it's resources in the way of water power, citing many reasons and ad-vantages, her essay proving both able and convincing.
